

Understanding Dual Diagnosis:

Estimates suggest around half of individuals who present to drug and alcohol agencies have co-existing mental health problems. This course gives you an understanding of the relationship between substance and mental health. The course covers:

- ✔ Understanding the nature and extent of co-existing mental health problems and substance use
- ✔ The good practice guidance in this area
- ✔ The range of mental health problems you might come across how to recognise, when to refer on and when you should work with the case
- ✔ Exploring the increased risks involved in working with individuals with co-existing mental health and substance use
- ✔ Understand how to engage with individuals with a dual diagnosis

What people have said about this course:

"I enjoyed the session much more than I thought I would. Very informative"

"Just ace- and all of my colleagues on the course said the same thing"

"Style was extremely useful in my learning I was never disengaged or drifted at any point in the day"
